New baby records checklist

A new baby arrives with a small stack of paperwork of their own. Here is what to collect, where each piece comes from, and a line to write where you put it.

Sources checked on November 27, 2026. Every fact links to the office it came from.

Birth certificates come from the state, not the federal government. The CDC keeps a list of every state's vital records office. CDC, National Center for Health Statistics
